[female voice] Some infections are becoming harder to treat with common antibiotics. You may or may not show symptoms and you could pass the infection on to others.

[Strong voice] Hands pass on infections – so keep them clean.

Wash your hands using normal soap and water after sneezing or coughing, using the washroom, changing diapers, or when around someone who's sick. And always wash your hands before eating or cooking.

[female] Washing your hands can help reduce your chances of getting sick with flu's, colds, diarrhea, and other infections. It can also help reduce the risk of infections in your family and friends. Keep healthy – wash your hands.
